

COMMUNICATION METHODS

Detailed below are the various methods we use to provide you with information on policy, career development opportunities, and acquisition career management initiatives.

ASC Home Page:

The ASC home page can be accessed at <http://asc.rdaisa.army.mil/>. It is designed to keep AL&TWF members informed of upcoming events and initiatives as well as provide updates on career development, training, and education opportunities. The home page is also a link for AAC policy memorandums, Army AL&T magazine articles, and lists of both military and civilian acquisition positions. It also contains information regarding contact information for ASC personnel, SES opportunities, GOSC information, the Acquisition Commander/Senior Manager Directory and various other items of interest.

AMB, PERSCOM Home Page

This site may be accessed at <https://www.perscomonline.army.mil/opfam5/ambmain.htm>.

Army AL&T Magazine

Army AL&T magazine is published bimonthly by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics and Technology. The purpose of this publication is to provide AL&TWF members with information on the latest processes, procedures, techniques, and management philosophy and to disseminate other information pertinent to the professional development of the acquisition community. The magazine is distributed to all AAC and CE members.

SAALT Bulletin

The SAALT Bulletin, a monthly publication reporting on various acquisition topics, is available by e-mail.

ACM

Your ACM is available to answer questions or provide you with career advice.

Site Visits

ACMs make periodic workforce visits to provide information briefings and one-on-one career counseling to the AL&TWF. If you are interested in a site visit for your area, please contact your ACM.

ASC/PERSCOM personnel make periodic workforce visits.

Annual Training Conference. Watch for conference announcement on the ASC home page.

AL&TWF Newsletter. The Army Acquisition, Logistics & Technology Workforce newsletter is an online publication developed quarterly by the Army Acquisition Support Center (ASC) for the U.S. Army Acquisition, Logistics & Technology Workforce. It is only available online on the ASC Web site (<http://asc.rdaisa.mil>).